

BIOGRAPHY

Tina M. Chindgren,
Director, Student Programs
Center for Program/Project Management Research

Tina M. Chindgren is currently serving as the Director of Student Programs at the NASA/USRA Center for Program/Project Management Research. Her subject matter expertise includes organizational learning, performance, and change. She has thirteen years of demonstrated experience in strategy development, program management, needs assessment, training design and delivery, and facilitation in Federal agencies. She has provided training and facilitation at NASA Centers including Goddard, Langley, and Marshall.

Ms. Chindgren is a doctoral student in the Adult Learning/Human Resource Development Program at Virginia Tech. Her dissertation research is on knowledge management and innovation in the Federal workplace. She has a M.A. in organizational communication, with an emphasis on organization development. Ms. Chindgren has been an invited speaker at national research and training conferences such as the Academy of Human Resource Development, Institute of Behavioral and Applied Management, Federally Employed Women, and Women in Science and Engineering. She has been on the graduate faculty of the Johns Hopkins University and has served as a guest lecturer at the George Washington University. She holds CEUs in program management and is certified in MBTI and the Leadership Styles Grid.

NASA Project Management Conference